Victoria Annual Fall Fair Opens With New Record

Exhibits Almost Double Number in 1930—Cattle and Livestock Create Million-Dollar Show—Big Exhibition Declared Greatest in History of Agricultural Association

WITH the number of exhibitors almost doubling those of last year and prospects that attendance figures would create a new record, Victoria's seventieth annual Provincial Exhibition was officially opened here yesterday afternoon by Premier S. F. Tolmie. The ceremony was attended by representatives from Vancouver and other points on the Island and Mainland, and Hon. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, made his first public appearance, but was not one of the speakers.

VALUE OF EXHIBITS
The high standard of judging set by the British Columbia Agricultural Association, in co-operation with the Provincial Department of Agriculture, has attracted to Victoria's fair one of the finest collection of exhibits ever assembled. The officials of the fair do not overestimate the value of the exhibits by stating that this year the fair has a "million-dollar livestock showing." The livestock section of the exhibition has grown steadily each year and is indicative of the general trend of the industrial activities of the province towards dairy farming.

So great was the number of entries that temporary "booms" had to be erected to house them. Some of the finest cattle to be found in the Dominion was on show yesterday. The livestock is representative of all provinces west of the Great Lakes, and one exhibit of thirty head of Jerseys has traveled all the way from Brampton, Ontario. The New Horizons Show Building, constructed this year, is fitted to capacity of accommodation with prize-winning horses in the heavy and light classes. Many widely-known breeders from the Prairie Provinces have placed their animals on view, and among the heavy classes there are some from the United States coast. The horse exhibits are more numerous this year than in any other year in the history of the fair.

ALL SPACE TAKEN
The Manufacturers' Building, which was also constructed this year, was not large enough to accommodate all applications for space, every foot being sold well in advance of the opening. The building, made-in-British Columbia products, predominate, and these products are well arranged and are Continued on Page 2, Column 3.

President Surprised At Extent of Damage By Chinese Floods

Chiang Kai Shek Arranges for Half-Million Silver Loan After Inspection of Devastated Regions in Yangtze Valley

By REGINALD SWEETLAND
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)
HANKOW, China, Aug. 31.—After making a personal survey of the flooded areas, President Chiang Kai Shek has arranged with the Central Bank of China for a loan of $500,000 silver to the local native banks in an attempt to prevent a total financial collapse. He expressed himself as tremendously surprised at the extent of the damage.

CUSTOMS MAN BADLY INJURED

Thomas Watson, 343 Sylvia Street, Suffers Fractured Skull in Accident

Thomas Watson, night clearing officer at the Customs Longroom, recently promoted, was seriously injured yesterday in a serious nature, the intersection of Superior and Government Streets, while cycling to work at 4:30 p.m. Traveling west on Superior Street, Mr. Watson came in contact with a car driven by Victor Edgewood, which was proceeding north on Government Street. Mr. Watson was removed to the Jubilee Hospital in the police ambulance, where Dr. A. C. Sinclair attended and pronounced his condition serious from a fracture at the base of the skull. His wife and family, residing at 343 Sylvia Street, were notified at once.

The accident took place just prior to the evening, after from the Parliament Buildings, and was witnessed by several passers-by. Constable Durnell, of the city police force, attended in response to a call for the ambulance, and took the injured man to the hospital, where he remained unconscious. Dr. Sinclair, after an examination, said the injuries were of a serious nature, but Mr. Watson was resting as comfortably as could be expected under the circumstances.

The accident came as a sharp reversal of good fortune for Mr. Watson, who in June last was promoted in the Customs office from night clearing officer to day clearing officer, after considerable service in the Federal department. Keen regret was expressed last evening by his colleagues in the service. Mr. Watson was on his way to work at the time of the mishap.

The driver of the automobile, Victor Edgewood, resides at 1007 Collingwood Street.

At Official Opening of Exhibition

HON. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of British Columbia, made his first public appearance at the ceremonies attending the opening of Victoria's Fall Fair yesterday afternoon. The above group, which was taken just prior to the opening, includes the Lieut.-Governor, in center with cane; Mrs. J. W. Fordham Johnson, Miss Johnson; Mayor Herbert Anson, E. M. Whyte, president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association; Alderman Walter DePford, Vancouver; W. Leck, head of the Vancouver Fair Association; Hon. William Atkinson, Minister of Agriculture; Alderman Robert Smith; W. H. Mearns, secretary of the British Columbia Agricultural Association; John K. Matheson, manager of Vancouver Fair Association; A. E. Humphries, member of the British Columbia Association executive; and A. M. D. Fairbairn, secretary to the Lieutenant-Governor.

CAR PLUNGES DOWN RAVINE

Albert Moss Killed and James Roberts Injured in Accident on Malahat

A motorist's first drive over the Malahat Mountain ended fatally on Sunday afternoon, when the automobile driven by Albert Moss, 1334 Johnson Street, plunged over an embankment, carrying the driver to his death and causing serious injuries to James Roberts, chauffeur, resident at the Y.M.C.A., who was an occupant of the machine.

Mr. Roberts was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where his condition was reported to be serious, although not grave. He suffered a broken thigh and internal injuries, besides severe cuts and bruises about the face and body. He is being treated by Dr. E. L. McEwen. Mr. Moss lay for two hours with his companion in the undergrowth fifty feet down the mountain side, unable to move. He suffered a broken shoulder, two broken legs and a crushed pelvis. He died five minutes after Dr. McEwen reached him.

CRASHES THROUGH TREES
The accident occurred about 3:30 o'clock. Mr. Moss was at the wheel and was driving north over the Malahat Highway for the first time. As he approached the summit, the car crashed through the trees, hurtled between two trunks and crashed down the mountain side, turning over and over as it moved through the undergrowth and small trees.

NEW PATH TO WRECK
Constables Monte Lee and L. P. Hughes enlisted the help of workmen at the Bamberton cement works, who, with the aid of axes and other implements hewed a path to the wrecked car. It was two hours before Dr. McEwen could reach the injured men. He had to be lowered down by a cable to get Mr. Moss. Mr. Roberts was brought up to the highway on a stretcher and taken to the hospital in the C. & C. ambulance.

Mr. Moss had only recently purchased the automobile. He was a war veteran and was a member of the Tuberculosis Branch of the Canadian Legion. Dr. McEwen expressed the opinion that Mr. Moss died from shock rather than from injuries. Surviving him is his widow, who resides in Vancouver. Mr. Moss was a part-time employee of Digby's, Ltd., being engaged there as a printer.

Mr. Roberts only recently was released from hospital after a long illness. He is a chauffeur by trade, but has not been employed since he left the hospital. He is a widower and has one son, Jack, who is a member of the Royal Canadian Navy Volunteer Reserve.

An inquest into the death of Mr. Moss will be held at the McCall Bros' Mortuary at 10 o'clock this morning.

CHINESE KILLED IN SEATTLE RIOT

Four Others Badly Injured When Mob of Filipinos Attacks Chinese Store

SEATTLE, Aug. 31 (AP).—One Chinese was killed and four badly injured when a mob of about fifty Filipinos descended on a Chinese store here tonight and swarmed over the place, brandishing knives and wielding clubs.

Lew Jim, forty-five, died soon after being taken to the city hospital. He was stabbed over the heart.

Detectives started an investigation of the melee, believed the outbreak to be a long smoldering South End gambling feud. Only two of the attackers were arrested, the others melting away when patrolmen, swinging night sticks, responded to riot calls sounded at headquarters.

Soviet Proposal Of Economic Pact Is Well Received

Principle of Nonaggression Accepted by Committee of Pan-European Commission—Warm Support Given by German Foreign Minister

GENEVA, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Soviet proposal for an economic nonaggression pact was presented today by Maxim Litvinoff, Russian Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, to his colleagues of the Pan-European commission's co-ordinating committee, and obtained "in principle" a favorable reception. The committee referred the scheme to a sub-committee, which will seek to return it in a modified form acceptable to the spokesmen of the European states.

WAR VETERANS IN CONVENTION

Amendments to Allowance Act and Perpetuation of Legion Discusses

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 31 (CP).—With opening ceremonies ending with the departure of His Excellency the Earl of Beasborough, Governor-General of Canada, the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Legion settled down to business this afternoon and a number of important resolutions were passed by the convention.

Proposed amendments to the War Veterans Allowance Act and a proposal for the perpetuation of the Canadian Legion were discussed for lengthy debates. One resolution referring to war veterans' allowances was referred to the committee for further consideration. This resolution asked that a section of the War Veterans Act be amended to authorize the board to allot a portion of the allowance to dependents while a veteran is a patient in an institution at the expense of the Federal Government. Instead of, as at present, cutting the allowance off entirely.

Other suggested amendments to the War Veterans Allowance Act asked that the widow of a recipient of war veterans' allowances be entitled to payment after his death, as provided in the act, even if he died before the war.

Four Hurt in Auto Wreck At Lillooet

LILLOOET, Aug. 31 (CP).—Four persons were hurt, one seriously, when an automobile driven by Jack Powell, of Bridge River, plunged over a cliff off the Mission Mountain Road and landed on the railway tracks below after turning over several times.

Most seriously injured was Mrs. C. Kallman, a passenger in the car, who was picked up unconscious and hurried to Vancouver by train for hospital treatment. Her injuries are undetermined. She was treated at the scene of the accident by Dr. J. A. Stuart, of Lillooet. The others escaped with minor injuries.

According to Powell's story of the accident he was trying to pass another car.

AUSTRALIA'S FRUIT SEASON PROFITABLE

CANBERRA, Aug. 31 (AP).—The fruit export season just closed will long be remembered by growers throughout Australia as the most profitable they have ever had. The quantity was a record and the relatively high prices obtained were enhanced by the rate of exchange for the transfer of money to Australia.

Mayor Announces Tomorrow as Half Holiday for City

UNITED efforts on the part of all employers to make Citizens' Day at the fair a success is sought in an appeal by Mayor Herbert Anson. His words announced that the City Hall will close at noon today, and civic staffs will be given a half holiday after the purpose of attending the Provincial Exhibition at the Willows. Similarly, Mayor Anson asks that business houses follow the example of stores and close for the half-holiday period. This year Victoria and its surrounding areas have a bumper exhibition, with keen competition in all departments.

FRANCE WILL LEAVE SYRIA

Confirmation Received of Intention to Resign Mandate—Mosul Oil Factor

By PAUL SCOTT MOWERS
(Copyright, 1931, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

PARIS, Aug. 31.—It is confirmed today that France, following the example of the British in Iraq, intends in the near future to resign its Syrian mandate and establish Syria as an independent state, probably with Ali, brother of King Faisal of Iraq, as king, make a close Franco-Syrian alliance and propose in 1932 the admission of Syria into the League of Nations at the same time the British propose the admission of Iraq.

This intention has already been intimated in a French note to the league.

KING IN PARIS
It is noteworthy, furthermore, that King Faisal is now in Paris. One subject of his conversations with the French is said to be precisely the candidacy of his brother for the kingship of Syria.

Another subject of conversation is said to be the Mosul oilfields in Iraq. By the Franco-British agreement the oilfields must be exploited by 1935.

France wants and needs this oil, for it has virtually none elsewhere. King Faisal also wants the fields exploited so that he can get the royalties.

But the British and American companies, who hold the majority control in the oilfields, being confronted with vast overproduction elsewhere, are said to be in no hurry to drill in Mosul. It is even rumored that some non-French sources have been paying King Faisal "advance royalties" so that he will not insist on immediate drilling.

It is now hinted that France might also pay "advance royalties" as well as support Ali for the kingship of Syria if Faisal feels able to insist on immediate construction of the pipeline.

FOUR OFFICES BROKEN INTO

Chief of Police Heatley Starts Crusade Against Undesirables in City

With four places entered over the week-end, Chief of Police Thomas Heatley announced yesterday that the night patrol in the city would be reinforced during the racing week.

Certain undesirables have arrived in the city and everything will be done to prevent robberies, the chief declared. Banishment of these undesirables from the city will be carried out as soon as they give sufficient provocation for their removal, the chief declared.

The Army and Navy Veterans' Association club headquarters were entered over the week-end, Charles Cross, of 2023 Chambers Street, reported to the police.

THROUGH TRAPDOOR
Police investigated and discovered that the burglars had made their entrance through a trapdoor on the roof of the building and had then come down the stairs and gained access to the office by cutting off a pane of glass. After robbing the steward's office of a small sum of money, they then broke into the barroom and stole large quantities of cigarettes. The entire clubrooms were ransacked and left in a state of disorder.

Escape limited, of 1112 Langley Street, had its offices entered. Things were turned upside down and left strewn on the floor. It is not known whether anything is missing.

NAVY LEAGUE ROOMS
The same gang is believed to have entered the Navy League rooms at 1112 Langley Street. No valuables were taken.

The fourth case of robbery was reported at the Stewart Shoe Store, 1619 Douglas Street. A show case was broken into and the shoes taken away.

A squad of plain clothes men will patrol the city streets in addition to the uniform men to put a stop to these robberies.

Minister of Dominions Affected as He Resigns From Union Which He Led for a Lifetime—Cabinet Met to Discuss Economies Involving Cuts in Civil Service and Dole

By THOMAS T. CHAMPTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The resignation of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas today as general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen was undoubtedly the most bitter experience in his long years both as a trade unionist and a politician. The break was forced by his determination to remain with the National Government.

Mr. Thomas' ultimate destiny will be the directors' room of the Great Western Railway. This prediction was given to the Canadian Press with confidence tonight by one well acquainted both with Mr. Thomas and affairs of the English railway world.

RESIGNS POSITION
Tears were in Mr. Thomas' eyes as he left Unity House, headquarters of the Railwaymen's Union in Euston Road, today. His resignation only forestalled a dismissal by the executive of a union which has benefited more by Mr. Thomas' work than any other union at the hands of a devoted leader.

Mr. Thomas was faced with the unanimous request to resign immediately from the National Government. The Railwaymen's Union was fully in sympathy with the general opposition of trades unionism to the National Government and to those erstwhile Laborites who support the new ministry.

WOULD BE COWARD
"To comply with this request," Mr. Thomas told the executive committee, "would make me appear both a coward and a cad. I cannot and will not do it. Indeed, to ask me to do it when you know I have acted throughout in accordance with the dictates of my conscience is unfair."

Mr. Thomas thereupon tendered his resignation, thus ending his official connection with the union of twenty-six years. Under his guidance the railwaymen's wages have been far more than doubled. His house at Dulwich was a gift of the railwaymen through penny subscriptions.

CABINET BUSY
Meanwhile, the new Cabinet went ahead with its work of cutting $800,000,000 from the budget. Premier Ramsay MacDonald flew to London from Lismore, Scotland, and the Cabinet met for three hours in special session. No announcement was made at the conclusion of the session as to the date when Parliament would meet.

Among the economies considered, but unsettled today were the salaries of Cabinet ministers, reduction of pay in the civil service, reduction of the salaries of those of members of Parliament and of a large miscellaneous group whose cases are either governed by contract or otherwise.

ROBBED AT BANK DOOR
TORONTO, Aug. 31 (CP).—James Johnston, order clerk for Canada Dairies, Limited, was held up this afternoon at the door of the Dundas and O'Connell branch of the Bank of Toronto by two men and robbed of $2,200 which he was about to deposit for the company.

City Faced With Major Problem in Financing Relief

Estimated Cost of Caring for 600 Resident Unemployed With Dependents May Be Around $60,000 Monthly—Works Committee Acts

WITH approximately 600 resident unemployed with dependents registered on its books, Victoria city is faced this week with the task of selecting a comprehensive programme of public works which it is prepared to carry out as relief this Fall and Winter. At a special session at 9 o'clock this morning the public works committee of the council will have before it a list of works, aggregating nearly $800,000, from which to select such projects as it may recommend be proceeded with, with Government aid. How the programme is to be paid for is not the least of the worries of the city officials.

The works committee, which consists of Mayor Herbert Anson and Aldermen J. L. Mara, Robert Smith and John A. Worthington, will have before it a detailed list of projects which, it is understood, has been prepared by its technical staff for the purpose. These will include sewer construction requirements, surface drains, streets, waterworks, and other structural needs of a type that would require labor in a relatively high percentage in the total cost of work.

How much or how little of this list of projects can be undertaken as a programme by the city for the Fall and Winter months will depend largely on what financial help it is to receive from the two Governments. At present this has not been announced.

$60,000 PER MONTH
Meanwhile, city officials have estimated that it would require approximately $60,000 per month to maintain 600 men in full-time employment at the minimum rate of $2.80 a day in subsistence and separation allowances, including the cost of materials with which to put them to work. Allowances alone under this head would require some $43,000.

ALMOST ENTIRE LOAN CONVERTED

Written Applications Received in Australia for 97 Per Cent of Total

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 31 (CP).—Ninety-seven per cent of the entire Commonwealth internal loan, which totals $2,780,000,000, has been converted to lower interest rates. Commonwealth bank officials were authority for this statement today. Written applications for the conversion of more than $2,250,000,000 have been received and it is not expected that securities conversion of which will be refused, will total more than $750,000,000.

The conversion of the entire internal debt to interest rates which represent roughly 20 per cent off the total governmental interest burden, is the most important of the different schemes by which the Australian Government aims at rehabilitating the financial structure.

Urges Permanent Exhibit to Show Products of B.C.

Premier S. F. Tolmie Suggests Natural Resources Display at Fair Grounds Be Open All Year—Outlines Advantages of Province in Agriculture at Opening of Willows Fair

THE need of a permanent exhibit of the natural resources of British Columbia that visiting tourists could have access to at any time of the year with a view of impressing on them the possibilities of the province for future investment, was strongly urged by Premier S. F. Tolmie, in his address at the opening of the Victoria Exhibition yesterday afternoon.

Premier Tolmie was referring to the numerous buildings at the fair grounds which are idle for a greater part of every year. He considered it would be a wise plan to have an exhibit of a permanent nature, well advertised and open at all times. He also suggested a series of night shows at the new Horse Show Building as a means of deriving additional revenue from the big investment in buildings.

MAYOR ANSCOMB

E. M. Whyte, president of the B.C. Agricultural Association, was chairman, and first introduced Mayor Herbert Anscomb, who addressed the gathering briefly. He said it was indeed gratifying that, during the period of depression, the people of Vancouver Island should come to Victoria to exhibit their products. He also mentioned that many of the exhibits had come from far distant parts of the province, for the officers of the association for the splendid show this year and urged the citizens to patronize the products of their home province, for, he said, "although Victoria is essentially a city, it cannot hope to exist without agriculture for a background."

Alderman Walter Deftford, of Vancouver, and Walter Leek, president of the Vancouver Fair Association, who made the trip to Victoria by plane, were introduced and spoke briefly.

Premier Tolmie, who was the principal speaker, opened his address by stating: "This is probably the largest exhibition in your history, having 621 cattle on hand today and 221 horses and a large number of sheep for which accommodation could not be found without erecting additional housing." The Premier mentioned the growth of the goat industry in British Columbia, 13,000 milk goats now being registered in the province, two of them

All High School Students to Enroll in Classes Today

To facilitate registration on the opening day, special instructions were issued last evening by Principal Ira Dilworth in respect to students in Grades 9, 10 and 11 at Victoria High School. Grades 10 and 11 will assemble in the auditorium of the school at 10 o'clock this morning. Grade 9, first-year students, will assemble at the same place one hour later, 11 o'clock. As all classes are expected to be crowded, it is imperative that students attend on the opening day, Mr. Dilworth stressed.

LARGEST EXHIBITION

"We have been complaining of hard times, the Premier said, it is rather an extraordinary thing that when you have these conditions existing in the country, you also have the largest exhibition in the history of the association. If we could only sell the resources that we have in British Columbia, we would have no hard times. The trouble is with the market of the world and not with us. I am sure that the exhibition does not indicate in any way that the province is in a bad position, but it clearly shows one thing—that the man on the land, particularly if he is a milk farmer, is about as independent as he can be. Taking his business year in and year out, he is just as well off as the average city man, and in many ways a much safer position."

"I think we will have to turn our minds more to the land than we have been doing in recent years. For instance, in the case of many of those who are seasonal workers, a small acreage on which a home is erected and on which they can produce many of the necessities of life, would simplify their living problems and would give them an occupation. No more healthy conditions could be brought about for the bringing up of a family."

NEED OF MARKETS

Referring to the markets for British Columbia produce, Premier Tolmie said: "I realize that the opening of markets for our produce, the safest and soundest method is being adopted for relieving our present situation. The government, in the last few years, has been working along these lines, and I feel that some good has been achieved in the Australian Trade Agreement and in the British Columbia trade agreement with regard to our lumber."

In his argument against the oft-repeated statement that the farmer cannot sell what he grows, the Premier said that such would be the case if the farmer interests himself only in the lines that are overproduced. He quoted the following figures to show the nature of imports into this country:

CANADIAN IMPORTS

"In 1928 we imported no less than $22,000,000 worth of agricultural products. It is only fair to state that a small amount of this was tropical fruits, which we do not produce here. We imported $5,500,000 worth of livestock and meats; dairy products $4,000,000. We imported 1,000,000 pounds of apples, 1,000,000 pounds of fresh fruits; 4,000,000 pounds of canned fruits; nearly 4,000,000 pounds of canned vegetables; 3,750,000 assorted bulbs; 8,241 ornamental shrubs; 266,000 plants of various kinds. All these were imported in 1928. Our plants and stock products were brought in here by no less than 812 ships out of 2,500 that came into Vancouver last year, nearly all of which have been produced within the country."

"These figures indicate that the complaints about markets are not so well founded as one might believe. There is still, from the figures just given, ample room to expand," the Premier declared.

being extensively advertised by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association with the urge to buy British Columbia and Canadian-made products. The exhibits range from milk-making machines to freighters, modern plumbing to bricks. All exhibition booths are tastefully arranged and represent, in industrial products, many millions of dollars investment in British Columbia.

This is the first year, officials of the association state, that every building in the grounds has been filled to capacity. The fact that the exhibits have almost doubled last year's entries has a particular significance. It has been the experience in most of the larger fairs in the Dominion this year that entries and attendance have fallen below normal. Victoria fair has a standard that has been steadily maintained. The quality of judging has placed Victoria's exhibition on a high plane and exhibitors know the value of prize awards from the Capital City show. They are the gold medals of the province, hence the increased number of exhibitors.

EDUCATIONAL EXHIBITS

The instructive and educational features of the exhibition provide an abundance of interest to the visitors, and although leaders are let down a generous sprinkling of rain during the opening afternoon, large crowds thronged the various buildings. Browsing Amusements are offering a variety of entertainment on the midway for old and young. The concessions, however, are fewer this year than last, but additional amusement devices are expected to be set up today. "On the lot" yesterday the amusements

MARRIED MEN

A start will be made today on camps in the vicinity of Vancouver. The camps to be started first will take care of some of the married unemployed. An effort is being made to arrange for special camps in the vicinity of large centres of population, where those who are unemployed physically for the more rigorous work of the regular camps, may be employed on tasks better suited to their capabilities. Today a delegation from the Vancouver City Council will meet the Government to discuss matters pertaining to the works programme to be undertaken within the city. On Wednesday a delegation from the Union of B.C. Municipalities will meet the Government to consider the various problems confronting the municipalities in providing works. While nothing definite has been determined, it is understood that an arrangement will be asked to bear one-third of the burden of works, while the Province and Dominion will bear the larger proportion will be the basis of consideration.

It is understood that the municipalities will request that materials be included in the expenditures shared by the Provincial and Federal Governments. Such was not the case last year.

Shipbuilders in Italy are still rushed with orders.

Schneider Cup Team To Be Chosen From Five Great Flyers

Keen Rivalry Maintained Among Ambitious Pilots Training for World's Greatest Speed Event One Week From Saturday Next

Britain's team of three racing pilots for the eleventh Schneider Trophy contest, to be held over the Solent and Spithead on September 12, may be selected in ten different ways from the five eligible members of the high speed flight team in training at Calshot Air Station.

The British 1931 team is practicing for the race in a way impossible previously. Squadron Leader H. Orlebar, captain of the team, is working on a solid basis of facts and experience; there is science and definite purpose in his plans where earlier years have known only a process of trial and error.

They are unassuming, at first quite ordinary, young men, these five high speed pilots under the command of an exceptional "skipper" in Orlebar, himself the holder of the world's speed record and captain of the British team in 1929. One would not notice any one of them, particularly in a crowd.

But when they are in the air, their speed, apparently, is almost unmatchable. With a brown, lean face, calling to mind an eagle or a Red Indian chieftain, gentle in manner and always courteous, is one of those rare men who are born to lead others. His keen, aquiline face and steady eyes are the index of a determined, astute man.

His voice is high-pitched and "finicky," his smile is ready and winning, but there is no one on the air station who is more determined than he is to win. He is the only flying member of the team who will be his own boss. He is the only flying member of the team who will be his own boss.

CANADIAN PRODUCTS

In the Manufacturers' Building, the Canadian products group of the Junior Chamber of Commerce has a novel home products advertising scheme in the form of a big wheel which revolves in six-second intervals with a message at each interval. A general supply of home products literature is being distributed. The Junior chamber has been actively engaged in the buy-home campaign for several months.

Tonight, commencing at 8 o'clock, in the Horse Show Building, the Rotary Club of Victoria will present, to be followed by the show exhibition at 8:40 o'clock, the "million-dollar show" which will be held at 2:30 p.m. On Friday, at noon, the Stockmen's Association annual convention will be held, and at 8 o'clock, the meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association will take place.

Judging, beginning tomorrow at 10 o'clock, will include: Division "A," Cylindricals, agricultural classes and heavy draft; Division "A," Section 85, thoroughbreds; Division "B," Section 6, Holsteins; Division "B," Section 158, Jerseys; Division "B," Section 6, Shorthorns; Division "C," Section 208, sheep; Division "C," Section 1, swine.

$30,000 DAMAGE IN SALMO FIRE

NELSON, Aug. 31 (CP)—A $30,000 fire, which originated in the residence of Walter Shill at Salmo last night, completely destroyed four buildings, including the Salmo Hotel, engine house and two private residences. No structure or personal effects were saved. Cause of the fire is unknown.

Fire also broke out in the Salmo Trading Company store, which was engaged on special research work with high-speed aircraft at the Marine Experimental Establishment at Felixstowe, and is certainly one of the three or four pilots in Great Britain who are acknowledged authorities on high-speed flying.

Like some other of his present companions, he has met terrible risks in the course of his experimental work and has overcome them by the exercise of cool courage and strength beyond the ordinary. He will still tell, with surprise that he ever managed to do so, how he smashed the dashboard and sides of the fuselage, using only his hands and his feet covered in soft rubber shoes, to extricate himself from the racer which crashed upside down in the sea and pinned him under water. The experience has not disturbed him one whit; a man of iron is this Londoner from Harrow, where he was born in 1901.

ROAD WORK COMMENCES

Several camps will be opened in British Columbia tomorrow, when, it is expected, fully 1,000 men will be put to work. This number will be augmented each day, and it is expected that by the end of the week at least 3,000 will be at work. Each day, therefore, as rapidly as they can be absorbed, more men will be put to work.

It may be some weeks before the work programme in the other provinces will be advanced to the same stage as that of British Columbia. Mr. Bruhn is charged with urging the necessity for the other provinces to exercise some measure of control over unemployment within their several jurisdictions to prevent them flocking into British Columbia.

By the middle of the month, it is expected, ten to twelve men from the Dominion and Provincial Governments will have absorbed the majority of the unemployed men, while other undertakings will have to a large extent decreased the list of unemployed married men.

FLAPPER IDOL

Lieut. G. L. Brinton is the handsomest of the team. He is also the first naval officer to be chosen for the high speed flight. His flying record is a masterpiece of speed and every landing perfect. Naturally a favorite with the noncommissioned airmen on the station, his artistic handling of the racer is the subject of enthusiasm in the sergeants' mess, where nothing can sway the belief that if pre-eminence can be accorded among pilots of such supreme ability, Smith is the best of the lot.

SOVIET PROPOSAL OF ECONOMIC PACT IS WELL RECEIVED

Meanwhile, a report of economic experts advocated "the widest possible collaboration of the nations of Europe in the sense of making Europe a single market for the products of any and every country in it."

In urging prompt action on his proposal, the Soviet delegate asserted that his adoption would be far toward terminating an atmosphere of distrust which now prevails among nations.

SUPPORT FROM GERMAN

The German Foreign Minister gave the Russian plan warm support and asked for immediate favorable action by the co-ordinating committee of the League of Nations. Foreign Minister, also approved the principle of the nonaggression idea, and hoped that, with some small changes, it might command general approval.

FRENCH PROPOSAL

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP)—Joseph P. Boncour, foreign affairs chairman of the Chamber of Deputies, in a statement to the Associated Press, proposed that the armed forces of every nation be placed at the disposal of the League of Nations to put down wars of aggression.

M. Paul-Boncour, who will be one of the Soviet's principal delegates at the Geneva disarmament conference in February, declared France was ready to take that momentous step.

"Are other nations, like us, ready?" he asked.

has been an inmate of a government institution. Another resolution asked that free hospitalization and treatment be accorded to those receiving war veterans' allowance, as are given to Class 2 pensioners. Still another asked that the time of residence in Canada to qualify a veteran for war veterans' allowance be reduced from twelve months to three months, while another proposed that a widower receiving allowance and with infant dependent children should be paid on the same basis as a married man.

The question of organizing a junior organization for the sons of war veterans with the purpose of training and educating them in the traditions, principles and ideals of service, so that at some future time they could become active members of the Legion and thus perpetuate the organization, was adopted and sent on to the constitution and laws committee for inclusion in the constitution.

PRINCIPLE ADOPTED

This resolution evoked much discussion, much of it favorable, with suggestions that Legion scouts or Legion cadets should be organized, with only the sons of veterans eligible. Finally, the principle of the resolution was adopted, and it now goes to the committee to be properly fitted into the constitution.

Resolutions of felicitation to His Majesty the King, the Prince of Wales, His Excellency the Governor-General, Earl Jellicoe, Viscount Byng, Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, Lieut.-Col. L. R. Lafleche, the British Empire Service League, the British Legion, sister organizations in Canada, the American Legion and the disabled and dependent, were passed at the beginning of the sessions.

Gen. Alex. Ross, of Saskatchewan, chairman of resolutions committee, pointed out that twenty-two months had elapsed since the last Dominion convention. Many new problems requiring attention had developed. Hundreds of resolutions had been handed in, he said, but it

VOTERS' LIST OPENS TODAY

Viceroy of India First Name on Register—R. P. Butchart Also Freeman

Registration on the city voters' list opens this morning at the City Hall, and will continue for two months, under new regulations recently made effective by legislation. Property owners, who compose about nine-tenths of the list, are registered automatically and without effort on their part. Householders and licensees, if British subjects of the age of twenty-one years or over, and resident in the city since January 1 last, may secure a vote by meeting the usual requirements.

With certain exemptions, householders will be required to pay the $2 road tax and the $5 poll tax. Qualifying and listed license holders do not have to register again, but others may record their names on taking a declaration that they have paid a trade licence to the city of the value of $5 for the current year. Corporations, also, receive a vote, going through a special form of declaration, and naming an authorized representative.

The total number of names on the Victoria City list last year was 11,897, of these 9,500 being property owners. This may be exceeded this year.

Exemptions to the payment of road tax covers those of sixty years of age, and members of the active militia, disabled veterans, and property owners in other municipalities to a requisite tax value.

TWO FREEMEN
The Victoria City voters' list is distinct throughout all Canada in that it contains the names of two Freemasons, under legislative warrant. These are Lord Willington, Viceroy of India, and former Governor-General of Canada; and Robert Pim Butchart, the first British Columbia citizen to be accorded that honor, in recognition of exceptional services to the city and its environs.

Lord Willington voted on a Victoria City by-law while here in recent years, shortly after his creation as Freeman. His name is recorded on the voters' list as Freeman Freeman-Thomas. Mr. Butchart, who received the honor both on account of himself and also as a tribute from the city to Mrs. Butchart, has full citizenship rights in Victoria.

Applicants for registration at the City Hall within the next sixty days should apply at the office of the city clerk, unless other provision is made for voting commissioners.

TWO NEW HOMES LISTED IN CITY

Permits issued at City Hall close to $5,000 on last day of August.

Approximately $8,000 worth of new work will be undertaken in the city as a result of building permits issued yesterday at the City Hall.

All permits were for dwelling purposes, involving two new residences and alterations to existing premises, according to James Barf, building inspector.

E. J. Hunter took out a permit for the construction of a story-and-a-half dwelling at 29 Marlborough Road, to cost $4,700. It will have seven rooms and a garage, and will be of handsome modern design.

H. Clark secured a permit for the erection of a five-room bungalow at 360 Poul Bay Road, of frame stucco construction, and to cost $3,000.

An alteration permit was issued to Mrs. J. Spence for addition to a dwelling at 3020 Cedar Hill Road.

JAIL AND LASH FOR WINNIPEG BANDITS

WINNIPEG, Aug. 31 (CP).—Three daylight holdups perpetrated last week on the edge of Winnipeg's downtown area are balanced by four trials and complete admission of guilt. Harry Dundas, twenty-two, and Manley Conheiser, twenty-four, New York, pleaded guilty in police court today to the $10,500 looting of a West-End Royal Bank of Canada branch on Wednesday and were remanded for sentence.

A few moments previously, plea of guilty has been entered by William Maxey, twenty-three, and Delbert Heise, thirty-one, in connection with the robbery of two chain stores last Tuesday. Sentence of twelve and ten years, respectively, with ten years, were imposed by Magistrate R. M. Noble. Five-year sentences, too, concurrently, were imposed for theft of a motorcar.

RELIEF FUND IN NEED OF SUPPORT

Thirteen Thousand Dollars a Day for Next Fifteen Days is Objective

Thirteen thousand dollars a day has to be collected by the Victoria Citizens' Unemployment Committee if the objective of $250,000 is to be reached at the end of the next fifteen days, it was announced yesterday.

"We are putting forth every effort to reach the objective," a representative of the committee said; "but unless the appeal receives greater support there will be little prospect of alleviating the distress during the coming winter."

"Our objective is the smallest sum which will enable the situation to be coped with adequately. Food, clothing, shelter and a hundred necessities must be made available for unemployed workers. It is useless to ignore facts. Children will suffer want, and dissatisfaction will increase as helpless parents watch their young struggling through the winter school term handicapped by lack of the ordinary necessities of life," the representative declared.

"Money is urgently needed. The rich man's thousands and the poor man's dollars will be gratefully received at headquarters, View and Broad Streets, or by the city treasurer, Edwin C. Smith, at the City Hall."

leaving $17,000 as the cost of materials for a month's work, a low estimate.

On this basis, the cost of maintaining its resident unemployed who have dependents to provide for, would fall initially on the city at the rate of from $2,000 upwards a day, or roughly, three-quarters of a million dollars a year. The question in the mind of city officials, viewing this task, is what can be expected from the Dominion and Provincial Governments in the bearing of this burden.

The annual budget of the corporation is in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, marked in advance for ordinary requirements. Unemployment relief undertaken from now on must, it is anticipated, fall as an additional burden on succeeding budgets, either in the form of an overdraft, or otherwise.

While members of the council and city officials are silent on the point, no secret is made of the fact that the problem has become a question of money, rather than of the giving of employment.

PLENTY OF WORK

There is no lack of work waiting to be done. In the detailed list that will go before the works committee this morning will be many well-known projects, and, perhaps, some new ones. While no official disclosures were made on the subject, it is understood that the list will include Pandora Avenue, Fort Street, Cook Street and other main thoroughfares of the city in respect of which street work has been formerly suggested. Sewers and surface drains are like continued stories with the corporation, always in need of extension, as and when funds permit. The city's waterworks system is another fruitful source of opportunity.

FEDERAL GOVERNMENT'S OFFER

It cannot be too clearly understood that the Dominion Government is responsible in no shape or form for any delay experienced in the setting in motion of the unemployment relief programme. Its policy affecting a transcanada highway is outlined. It has defined its attitude in taking care of transients. Its responsibility affecting single men is known. It is willing to pay one-third of the cost of finding employment for married men in municipalities, with the Province and the municipal authorities sharing the balance of the expense. Nothing more could be expected. In fact, the aid promised by the Federal Government is generous in the extreme and should be accepted without question or any cavilling.

There is a triple responsibility affecting unemployment which cannot be buried. The municipalities have a definite part to play, and, under the proposals made by the Dominion Government, that part is lessened as compared with the obligations incurred following the emergency session of the Federal Parliament last September. In other words, Ottawa is affording a greater measure of relief and the offer should be adopted without either delay or quibble. In this whole matter of unemployment relief there has been too much beating about the bush and attempting to evade responsibility. What should be borne in mind is that the Dominion Government has to deal with all provinces on an equal basis. It cannot play favorites. What it does for British Columbia is must do for Ontario. In effect, it has to assist in solving the problem in a national way. The proposals it has put forward, and which have been before the provinces for some weeks, are of a character which can be adopted. The sooner they are the quicker the scheme of unemployment relief will be put into practice.

Senator Robertson, Federal Minister of Labor, is quite right in saying that the Dominion Government can no longer accept any onus of the blame for any delay there is in putting relief schemes into effect. The responsibility for delay must rest elsewhere. It is time that the public should be fully apprised of the facts of the situation. The Dominion Government has made proposals, more generous than might have been anticipated. It remains for the provincial and municipal authorities to co-operate with Ottawa by every means in their power and put into effect, without further delay, those projects which are designed to offer employment to all who are out of work.

MR. RAMSAY MACDONALD'S POSITION

In Shakespeare's play, "Macbeth," Malcolm, the Prince of Scotland, says of the Thane of Cawdor's death: "Nothing in his life became him like the leaving of it." Of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald it may also be said that "nothing in his public life became him like his resignation as head of a Labor Government." He threw overboard the titular aspirations of a lifetime's convictions. The gesture he made of putting the claims of the nation ahead of any party considerations alienated his former supporters. He now heads a temporary union of Conservatives and Liberals in which a handful of his former followers owes him allegiance. He has a majority with which to carry on government. He has taken this step in order that British credit may be maintained.

Before the latest happenings Mr. MacDonald was a Labor Prime Minister. Now he has become a national figure in a wider acceptance of that term. He has been supported in the course he has taken by Mr. Philip Snowden, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Sir William Jowitt and Lord Sankey and a certain number of others of his former followers in the Labor Government. Many of the Ministers of that administration have broken loose from his leadership. The Labor Party as a whole has elected Mr. Arthur Henderson as its leader. In other words, Mr. MacDonald is ostracized by Labor. His constituents of Seaham Harbor have renounced him. They have demanded his resignation of his seat in the House of Commons. That is not an unusual procedure, but it would be a negation of constitutional representation were Mr. MacDonald to acquiesce in their demand. It is not the constituents of Seaham Harbor whom he represents, but the people of Britain as head of a Coalition Government.

There is implied in the attitude of the constituents of Seaham Harbor, as far as Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is concerned, a species of coercive authority. It is an attitude that cannot be condoned. It recalls the circumstances which led to the election of Bristol sought to apply to the membership of Mr. Edmund Burke when he represented that constituency in the British Parliament. Those electors, who considered they were immediately responsible for returning him to the House of Commons, sought to impress restrictions on his course of action. Mr. Burke at once admitted that a representative should live in "the strictest union, the closest correspondence and the most unreserved communication with his constituents." He said, "his wishes ought to have great weight with him; their opinion high respect; their business unremitting attention." He intimated it was his duty "to sacrifice his repose, his pleasure, his satisfactions, to theirs, and, above all, and in all cases, to prefer their interests to his own." Then, however, he went on to say, in words which should be the governing authority in any parallel situation, as follows:

"But his unbiased opinions, his mature judgment, his enlightened conscience, he ought not to sacrifice to you, to any man, or to any set of men living. These he does not derive from your pleasure; no, nor from the law and the constitution. They are a trust from Providence, for the abuse of which he is deeply answerable. Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays instead of serving you, if he sacrifices it to your opinion. . . . To deliver an opinion is the right of all men; that of constituents is a weighty and respectable opinion, which a representative ought always to rejoice to hear; and which he ought always most seriously to consider. But authoritative instructions; mandates issued, which the member is bound blindly and implicitly to obey, to vote and to argue for, though contrary to the clearest conviction of his judgment and conscience, these are things utterly unknown to the laws of this land, and which arise from a fundamental mistake of the whole order and tenor of our constitution."

In effect, when a member is chosen by a constituency he is a member of Parliament first, and afterwards, a member of the particular place for which he is elected. His duties in the former premises outweigh those of his local representation. He is a member of a deliberative assembly of the nation with one interest, that of the whole, where, in the words of Edmund Burke, "not local purposes, not local prejudices ought to guide, but the general good, resulting from the general reason of the whole." That affords a parallel for the course now being pursued by Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. He is acting for the nation and not for the local interests of the electors of Seaham Harbor. That is why their request that he should resign his seat in Parliament is a piece of pettifoggish political tactics.

TRAGEDY ON THE MALAHAT

The sympathy of the community will go out to those most closely concerned in the latest tragedy of the Malahat Drive. What has happened is an indication of the need for the institution of greater safety measures on that highway. Many times, and within the last few weeks, this newspaper has drawn attention to the need of widening that roadway. At the point where the tragedy of Sunday occurred the road is no more than fourteen feet wide. Specific attention has been directed again and again to that stretch of road leading to the Hamsterley tea house. It is unsafe. It is too narrow. The turns are too dangerous. That is illustrated by the accident in which Mr. Albert Moss lost his life and in which Mr. James Roberts sustained serious injuries.

The whole problem of safety on the Malahat deserves the most serious consideration. There have been too many accidents there, and the latest shows that, despite all the precautions taken, there are further safeguards that must be provided if the welfare of life, limb and property is to be assured. The main safeguard is the widening of the highway. To bring about this should be a settled policy of the future, pursued all the time until the roadway is made safe for motorists. The risks involved should be eliminated, and in no way can this be done better than in the removal of dangerous corners and the widening of the Drive, especially at points where there is anything in the nature of a sheer descent when a car is forced off the road.

"OLD SHIPS"

I feel a sea surge in my heart
Of ships an' sailormen.
An' though I'd sooner scan a chart
Than steer a yawning pen,
I'd like to see some foreign part
An' meet "old ships" agen.

I sometimes wish I'd never seen
The disconsolate sea;
Nor ever (God forgive me!) been
A measmate w' A.B.'s;
Then, times ashore was long between,
But now—'tis centuries!

A yarn is often on my lips
Of times long gone an' past,
When life was prime in sailor ships,
Though 'twas before the mast;
I sigh whenever I comes ter grips
W' joys as couldn't last.

So, tell I must o' ships an' lads,
An', maybe, too, o' gals—
(Though there was only fellows' fads—
The lively ship o' chais!)
In sloops or barks or ironclads,
"Old ships" was always pals!

Note and Comment

By R. E. D.

Great lord of all things, yet a prey to all:
Hele judge of truth, in endless error
The stars, and seas, and fields of the world!
—Pope (Macar on Man).

We have been charged with being too flippant in our comments on the octogenarian down under who frequently charged us with being too flippant in our references to what he chooses to consider the issue of temperance, meaning, of course, the quite different issue of prohibition. He was shocked when we quoted the opinion of one of the most distinguished of modern essayists that a periodical step beyond the bounds of strict sobriety would not be harmful to any man, and might prove beneficial to some men subject to continuous mental strain—and the distinguished authority might have added beneficial to men who were subject to continuous physical strain, too, for the soldiers in the late war undoubtedly benefited from their ration of rum when they returned exhausted from the trenches. Indeed, we know some of the returned men, one of them a distinguished journalist, who cannot enjoy his annual vacation without making his provision for his daily ration of rum.

At the same time, our comments upon this subject have been made with reservations, and we repeat: Heaven forbid that anything we write or suggest should prove a trap for the feet of a weak brother. So we trust that when the distinguished journalist aforesaid entered upon another period of rest and relaxation in company with his rum jug and a juvenile brother journalist that he will not put temptation in the way of his less seasoned companion. The profession of journalism, like everything else in these modern days, is not what it used to be—it is not permeated by the element of Bohemianism.

We have been privately advised that some gentlemen of the clerical profession are also somewhat critical in their comments upon our comments upon the ground that we are too flippant in our occasional references to what they consider sacred subjects. Well, we are not quite sure that all the subjects dealt with by the modern pulpit are sacred in the strict sense of that term. Indeed, we are not sure that the pulpit is not some times inclined to be flippant in its discourses. And we are quite sure that it does not always speak with authority when it discusses the sins, the shortcomings and the weaknesses of the press. Admitting that from the ecclesiastical point of view journalists are all specious sinners, from the ordinary newspaperman's point of view even a worm will turn.

Incurring the risk of being charged with further flippancy, we are going to suggest that thrift carried to extremes like temperance running amok may become a vice; that there may be intemperance in business as well as intemperance in the use of strong drink. Excessive speculation is intemperance in business and is quite as mischievous in its effects upon communities as intemperance in the use of spirituous liquors is demoralizing in its effects upon individuals and families.

For several years the people of this continent and all parts of the world have been spending money foolishly. Now there has been a reaction, and the people of this country and of all parts of the world are running helter-skelter to another extreme. They are hoarding money foolishly instead of spending money wisely. They are putting money in the banks and other secure places and keeping it out of circulation, and thus strangling business and perpetuating the depression. Although the times are hard, there is more money in the savings banks than there ever was at any time in the history of the world. There is a greater accumulation of the things money can buy than at any time within the memory of living men, but the stores of money which might be used in buying this abundance are locked up and lying idle. Thrift has degenerated and become a vice. Temperance has become intemperance, and millions of people are without employment and are appealing for aid from the charitable and for food and clothing from Governments.

We know that our comment upon these phenomena is just as foolish as the foolishness of the preaching of some flippant preachers and will have about a corresponding effect upon the conditions. The depression will not pass until the people of the world become normal and temperate again. The element that is lacking is confidence, and confidence in the future cannot be restored until confidence in the political future of the world also is restored. There is some uncertainty about the political future of Great Britain and other nations. Practically the only country in the world in which the political conditions are stable is Canada, for the business in the United States is unsettled because there is a presidential election pending. There has been a change of Government in Britain, and there must soon be a general election there also which will confirm the change of Government.

Humor of Golf

By WM. MACKAY

The gods of the Greeks were so numerous that it was said to be easier to find an image than a man. The modern gods, with innumerable devotes, are not images but balls—balls of various shapes and sizes, beginning with the football, round or oval, and then in descending scale through such spheres as the lawn-bow, baseball, tennis ball, until we arrive at the world-wide and universal ball, the golf ball.

The word "golf" is of Dutch origin (Kolf), but the game as played today and the laws that govern it have been evolved and developed in Scotland, which has also done a similar service for lawn bowling. All the greatest golfers, says Matthew Arnold, have the divine and universal. Golf has the universal and sizes, beginning with the football, round or oval, and then in descending scale through such spheres as the lawn-bow, baseball, tennis ball, until we arrive at the world-wide and universal ball, the golf ball.

The best conditions for the game are found in the temperate zone, though there are now many courses in the tropics. In Rhodesia, during a game, a lady killed, with her creak, a deadly serpent lying on the course, and her partner, on going to play the ball from a hazard, found two lions in the grass. In Scotland, when the ground is covered with snow the greens are swept and the players use red or yellow balls. The nineteenth hole, where refreshments, chiefly liquid, are served, then takes a long time before the players hole out.

There are many excellent inland courses, but the ideal one is near the seashore. A good course should be skilfully bunkered, be neither too gully nor too flat, have due east and west greens, a suitable length and a lovely environment. A famous professional was asked, after playing an opening round over a course situated among rocky hills and deep valleys: "Well, what do you think of our new course?" "I'm not a b—y," was the response. "A damp meadow" was his description of Muirfield, where many championships have been played.

THE LOST BALL
It was said of a course situated in the Grampians, among trees and bushes, that a player lost, first his ball, next his clubs, and finally his partner. A thrifty Scotloman gave up the game. "For," said he, "I've lost my ball."

Perhaps his ball disappeared in this fashion. "Look, mother, I've found a golf ball," said a young rascal. "Are you sure it was lost?" asked his mother. "Well, they looked a long time for it, so I came awa'."

The Greeks had a saying, "Be ware of the man with one idea." So the golfer must beware of "a damp novice who has caught golfitis or golfing fever. Some call this trouble 'foot-and-mouth disease,' because the sufferer walks all day and talks all night—talks occasionally interlarded with strange oaths as he remembers his agony in the depths of a Baharian bunker. To friends and relatives he seems possessed by a golfing demon. He declaims, thinks and dreams of nothing but golf—his scores, his mishaps, his heavenly hopes, his long putts and his future hopes and aspirations. His wife becomes a golf widow and business must not interfere with golf. Should he luckily get a hole in one he will be 'neither to hand nor blind,' and when next he appears on the field as 'a hole-in-one' he will be 'wisely' evaded.

Muskelburgh, an ancient Scottish golf course, has a bunker well named "Pandy," a shortened form of Pandemonium. An old lady who was a strict Calvinist, seated herself on a fine Summer day near this dread hazard. "My word," said she, recounting her experience afterwards, "Everyone that went into that big sandy hole be they old or young, gentle or simple, swore enough to break a heap of stone." In her opinion golf was game for wicked people and its language deeply died in sin.

Two strangers who knew nothing of golf were passing a putting green and stopped to watch the play. One ball lay in a heel-hole in a bunker. The player shot it out of the trap with his niblick so that it landed gently on the green and rolled into the hole. "How the devil they get out of that hole now?" said the other stranger to the other as they passed on their way. To have "the golfing temperament" is a great asset in winning a game. Champions are often said to have no nerves. Whatever mishaps befall them they remain unimpaired and take for their motto: "Not that (the mishap) but this (the next stroke) I must give my mind to."

Missing a short putt or an unexpected piece of ill luck sometimes makes an excitable and nervous, but otherwise good player, go all to pieces.

One player missed his drive "because," said he, "that bird singing on a tree put me off."

A handicap player challenged a scratch player to a match on even terms provided he "was allowed to give one about as the scratch man was striking the ball. He never shouted but won the game. A movement or whisper may make even the best of players miss their shots.

OUT OF HELL

A cadde, describing an incident in which a university professor and a clergyman were partners, said: "The principal drove the minister straight into Hell, but the minister took himself clean out with a spoon."

"After this he'll need to gie up the ministry." A golfer once, in jest, asked the village fool to try a drive at a short hole. He carefully instructed the simpleton how to use the driver and teed a ball. The fool drove, the ball rose beautifully, rolled over the green, and trickled into the hole—a hole-in-one. "My God," said the idiot, "what a fright I got; I thought it wassa' goin' in."

"Some golfers need no lampster. After a club competition by matches, a player was asked how he had fared.

"Well," said he, "my opponent was a very devil to drive, his brasses were long shots straight to the green, his approaches lovely lofting shots too near the hole, and his putts an inspiration dead on the cup."

"And how many are you down?" he was then asked. "Down, did ye say? I'm no down, I'm four up."

Frederick Tait, at one time amateur champion of Britain, had a stranger experience. His ball, driven with tremendous force, went clean through a tall hat. "Sir," said the angry owner, "that means a new hat for me."

"Be thankful," added Tait's cadde, "that it's not a new coffin."

A learned professor was exceedingly fond of the game, but a dreadfully duffer, in spite of much practice and many lessons. He asked his cadde one day if he was improving.

"Not at all," was the response, "it needs a head for this game."

A player in a match was four down and four to go, and with his ball lying hopelessly in a deep ditch. "Do you think I've any chance," he questioned. "None," if your opponent doesn't drop dead," was the answer.

From this just a moral (golfing) may be drawn. Every now and again we read that a golfer has dropped dead while playing. An eighteen-hole course puts a strain on the heart of a player advanced in years and takes two or three hours to complete. Though feeling exhausted, the player is unwilling, because of partners, to stop in the middle of play. On he goes striking violently at the ball; his heart fails and the play from comedy becomes a tragedy. The looker-on sees most of the game.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Allie Michells

Not the cloud or the wave or the bough
Is the thing that I love,
Though I linger till dusk turns to dark
As the sky's pageants move.
Though I find in the voice of the sea
Always comfort and peace,
And that deep in the forest's green
Care will grant me release.

Through the glory of cloud-flight I look
To the glory beyond,
And I seek for the stars in the sky.
Not the stars in the pond.
Not earth's beauties before me that move.
But hid beauties I guess;
And it is not loved hands that I love,
But the love they express!

Improvements in Automobile Field Showing at Fair

Latest Developments in World's Greatest Industry Are Seen in the Advanced Models on Exhibition at the Willows This Week—Biggest Display in Many Years

PRACTICALLY everyone is interested in latest developments of the automobile field, whether as a dispassionate observer or as a prospective purchaser. At the Provincial Exhibition, which opened yesterday afternoon, the automobile building holds such a display of the advanced models as has seldom been seen in Victoria. The entire building is given over to the Victoria dealers, who have, by co-operative decorative schemes and careful arrangement of their individual floor space, made this year's auto show really outstanding. Glittering headlights and shining bodies stand out among floral decorations and colored streamers, while from a central source the latest musical pieces are continually broadcast.

The Jameson Motors, Ltd., have their stand located close to the main entrance, displaying Studebaker cars, with six models. The main feature of this exhibit is the Studebaker six, shown in the Regal sedan and the Regal coupe. This popular model has won sweeping popularity through its relative economy, ease of handling and the similarity to the larger facsimile, the Studebaker Commander eight, which is also shown.

Today a special demonstration of the Studebaker free-wheeling feature will be shown, to continue throughout the balance of the week.

FORD MODELS
The National Motor Co., Ltd., is featuring a fine display of Ford cars and trucks. Six-passenger models are shown, including roadsters, sedans and sports models. The convertible sedan, with leather upholstery, attracts much attention. Throughout the whole line there is a very noticeable improvement in the already excellent standard of exterior fittings. A wide variety of color schemes are shown. Many visitors pause before a working stripped model of the Ford chassis, with the housing cut in sections to show the moving parts and the principle which actuates each.

CHEVROLET MODELS
The Motor House (Victoria, Ltd.) has an exceptionally fine showing of Chevrolet models, including five-passenger cars and three commercial models. A noticeable point in the smart design of passenger cars is the wide range of color available, together with the fine lines accentuating the power, speed and durability. Among the new features incorporated this year is the factor of added strength together with smoothness. The high quality of the finish is typified in the sports roadster displayed. The three trucks shown are in a range of three different wheelbases, namely, 109 inches, 131 inches and 157 inches, the difference making a selection suitable for every purpose.

GRAHAM-PAIGE
The Graham-Paige, shown by Eve Bros., Ltd., is displayed in three different models, the town sedan, the standard coupe and the prosperity six sedan. This latter car is one that attracts attention and comment from all corners, through beauty of line and finish, the low sweeping lines and style. Every car of this line is equipped with a shatterproof plate glass windshield, the value of which as a safety feature has been proved here locally in more than one case.

HUDSON-ESSEX
The Hudson-Exess line is displayed by A. W. Carter, Ltd., and is represented by one Hudson eight and two Essex models, both six-cylinder, one coupe and one sedan. On all these cars the new free-wheeling has been incorporated as an optional equipment, though included in the standard equipment. The tasteful color scheme, the gleaming brightwork and the beautiful interior of these models is such as to be of especial merit.

CHRYSLER-DE SOTO
Thomas Plimley, Ltd., shows the Chrysler in three different models and a De Soto, in addition to the aristocratic Packard. Perhaps one of the most striking cars exhibited here is the new Chrysler de luxe special eight, a perfect culmination of long years of experiment and triumph in the designers' art. The modernistic lines follow on the general idea of the racing car, with long sweeping curves from cowl to tail light. The radiator is the latest in style, striking a note of appeal through unusual beauty. No feature of interior or exterior fitting has been forgotten, from the double style of windshield to the upholstery. The Chrysler six sedan and coupe are also shown, while the De Soto is represented by a snappy sedan model.

DODGE-CADILLAC
Occupying the entire centre pane of the building stands the Begg Motor Co., Ltd., exhibit, comprised of the Dodge, the Plymouth, the Nash and the Cadillac. Two Dodge models are shown, in the coupe and the sedan eight-cylinder, while two of the popular Dodge six-cylinder standard sedans, one with special equipment, completes the line. The four Plymouth cars, featuring the new free-wheeling feature, draw much comment, especially the sports roadster, finished in grey with robin's egg blue fenders and trimmings. One six-cylinder Nash and three eight-cylinder Nashes are shown, all with free-wheeling as optional equipment. These latter have the twin ignition and the new Nash synchro-shift transmission. The standard Cadillac sedan has incorporated the synchro-mesh transmission, which, when combined with the lower body makes it much more easily handled.

More than sixty models in all, the 1931 Automobile show promises to outlive any other previously held in Victoria.

ARYAN RACE

FACES DUTY

J. F. Bledsoe Tells Gyros of Task Awaiting People on Pacific Coast

Under what was described as the comic urge of the Aryan race, J. F. Bledsoe, in an address before the Gyro Club yesterday at noon, developed the idea of what was before the present generation in the developing of a Pacific empire on this Coast.

The comic urge, he said, had been aptly stated in the words, "Westward the star of empire takes its way." From the earliest times the Aryan race had been pressing westward, with halts at various times, and the reaching of the Pacific in the near future was one of these halting times.

These halts were designed for some real purpose, and he felt that there was in the check on the Pacific development called for which would mean something of tremendous importance in the world's history. The resources were here if the generation only grasped the possibilities.

COSMIC URGE IS ANCIENT

Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, in his discoveries in the Gobi Desert, had found the traces of human occupation which went back, it was estimated by him, 10,000,000 years.

Wherever the race had its origin this cosmic urge to press westward was early implanted in it. The speaker recalled the settlements in Babylonia and Assyria, and from then on across Europe, with halts from time to time with consolidation of the race until the Atlantic was reached. With every halt in the civilization. Such a halt was now on the Pacific, which gave a chance to build.

Mr. Bledsoe felt that the duty was now put upon the race here to build. Such an institution as Gyro could do much in this direction, which could not be done by individuals. As the race came westward it was becoming broader in mind. The Pacific empire, to be developed, would be the broadest yet.

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If September 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a.m. to 11 a.m., and from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. The danger periods are from 2 p.m. to 3:40 p.m., and from 11 p.m. to midnight.

Those who make use of the creative faculty in music, art or literature, will find September 1 a fruitful date. It will be a dull, depressing time for those who follow an active business or profession, although there is a rainbow around the corner for them.

The child born on this September 1 will have an emotional, and a sensitive nature, a strong love of home, and tenacious desires. It will have an inclination to science and should specialize in a broad, unindented, highly intelligent individual.

Born on September 1, you are an active, busy person, and you never allow your brain to go to rest. Many of your hours of leisure are made pleasurable by the mental relaxation which good books afford. You preserve, throughout life, an abiding interest in everything, and this is old. You are a hard-working individual—from choice—but not a hard-worked one. You have very deep feelings, but your emotions are rather suppressed. You are willing to share the troubles of others, but you suffer your own alone. Because of your extreme independence of spirit, you are left alone, when sympathy and companionship would do you good. You are happy with people, and you are happy without them—you know how not to be bored, at all times, and in all places. You are keen, whether at work or at play. You do not do anything by half-measures. In business, you are hard-headed, shrewd and alert. It is seldom that you are caught napping in a deal of importance. You expect to pay full prices for goods, and you are not amiable when cheated. You give a fair deal, and you expect the same in return. As a rule, you are even tempered, but there are times, when you are in a raging fury, and show it. You seek peace, contentment and comfort more than anything else in the world. HOW TO STOP FOOD FERMENTATION

In Stomach and Avoid Sourness and Indigestion

It is said, formed by fermenting food, causing sourness, heartburn, indigestion, discomfort, fullness and pains of indigestion. These, stomach and intestinal ailments like people fail to give satisfactory relief.

The stomach acids that produce these ailments have proved to be the real cause of sour stomach and indigestion. Instead, an absolutely pure antacid or neutralizer should be used after meals to neutralize the stomach acids. In the stomach, and undoubtedly nothing could be better or safer for the purpose than pure Bismuth Magnesia. This can be obtained from any good drug store in either powder or tablet form, and is most effective. A teaspoonful of the powder, or two tablets, taken with a little water after meals will be sufficient to instantly neutralize excess acidity of the stomach, and prevent premature souring and fermentation of its food. It also permits normal, painless digestion of whatever food is eaten. Try this simple prescription and be delighted with your entire freedom from indigestion. (Adv.) $3,000,000 harbor.

Consider Campaign—A call was made at the Gyro luncheon yesterday at the Empress Hotel for the consideration of a campaign by that Club to get voters' names on the civic list. President William C. Hudson called the attention of the civic affairs committee to the fact that in former years good work had been done by being on the civic list. The proposal should be considered for the present year. The matter will be taken up at once by the committee.

Fishing Is Good—C. P. Constantine, president of the Botsford-Constantine Advertising Company, of Seattle, has returned from the vicinity of Campbell River where he has been enjoying fishing. The cohoes are plentiful at this time, and good catches are being made. Good sults have come from the use of fresh herring as bait, he reports.

Mr. Constantine is a very frequent visitor to Campbell River, where he regards the fishing as unexcelled.

Band Concert—The Victoria Girls' Band gave a pleasing concert to a large crowd at Beacon Hill Park on Sunday. There is a marked improvement in all sections of the band, especially the cornets. The trombone solo was well played, and was responded to with an encore.

The song, "Springtime in the Rockies" was sweetly sung by Miss Violet Marchant, which also called for an encore. This was the last open-air concert to be given by this band.

Remand Is Granted—Three weeks will pass before the case of Russell Stinson, hurt in a recent automobile collision, will be well enough to appear in court to give evidence in the charge against W. H. Maxam, Magistrate George Jay was informed in the city police court yesterday.

Macdonald, K.C., will appear for the estate; Eric Pepler, for the Province, and W. C. Brown, K.C., for the executor of the estate. The trial judge has not yet been named.

Provide Patients' Comforts—The work of the Red Cross Society among the patients at Esquimalt Provincial Mental Hospital for the month consisted of providing extra comforts to the patients. Among the 215 ex-soldiers a total of 1,634 parcels of comforts was distributed.

Concerts were arranged each Sunday, and during the month four extra concerts were given. The Irish Busby Band, Presbyterian Church choir, the Canadian Legion Band, and other concert parties assisted in the work of brightening the lives of the patients at Esquimalt.

Court Orders Potlatch—Simon Peter, an Indian, whose persuasive use of the Chinook tongue gave the city police court several moments of drama yesterday, must pay $10 for his trust in his fellow man. Simon Peter stood up in court and pleaded earnestly with Magistrate George Jay for some slight reversal of the rule that conviction of being drunk in public implied an immediate fine. Simon argued his case in Chinook, and with emphatic gestures. He had, he said, been accused by a white man on Johnson Street on a Saturday night. The man said he was sick, and needed medicine. Simon contributed fifty cents from his own pocket, but later shared the medicine. It was bad medicine, and Simon was later arrested on a charge of inebriation. "Mike Potlatch, $10," was the court's dictum.

NO CHANGES IN WEEKLY HOLIDAY

Retail Merchants' Group of Chamber of Commerce Opposed to Any More Exemptions

The retail merchants group of the Chamber of Commerce is not in favor of any change in connection with the weekly Wednesday half holiday. This was decided at a meeting of the organization held yesterday forenoon.

The question of the half holiday came up following a letter sent by S. Sanders, of the Furman Art Store, to the Chamber of Commerce. The directors turned the letter over to the retail group for suggested action.

J. W. Maynard, chairman of the group, explained to the meeting that the matter dealt with in the letter of Mr. Sanders was with regard to amending the law so as to exempt a business like the Furman Art Store.

But in this life, and in every branch of it, there is often a certain element of tapestry—fairydom extant, and while the fairies really know much better than humans do as to what should be done, they are not always able to do what they want to do, and what they know should be done, because there are many dogs in the manger, and I mean no reflection on old Rover, when I say that.

A QUESTION

"Is that the end of the fairy tale, Uncle?"

"No, my dear Lillian, far from it: it is only the beginning. We shall see, we shall see; and, in the meantime, let's go out to the Craigflower Bridge, and take a rowboat up to the end of Portage Inlet, where we can see a teeny-weeny 'cornerette' of both farms, one of which was doing something, at least, every once in a while, while the other is grass and weed overgrown, moss-backed, and groaning for something to do."

IN FAIRYLAND

Unless you've lived in Fairyland, you'll never save this my story; you'll never believe this Land of Glory.

Is it really, truly Fairyland? Not will you ever understand The ins and outs of debts and folly, The pros and cons of melancholy, Afflicting folks of Gloryland.

Luncheon will be served at the bridge tables before play begins at 2 o'clock, and from the enthusiasm with which the idea was received the ladies anticipate that the event will be well patronized. The proceeds are to be devoted to the work of the auxiliary.

PUBLIC CHOICES HAVE GOOD DAY AT WILLOWS

Tetroy Figures in Only Surprise Win At Popular Track

Captures Third Gallop to Reward $46.25 Straight and $20.15 Place—Piracy and King Han Put On Thrilling Stretch Duel in Fourth—Mills Pilots Home Three Winners

Daily Double Returns $210.95

Favorites and second choices ruled yesterday's card at the Willows track and six clicked home in first place. The major surprise of the day came in the third race, when Tetroy got down in front to reward his followers with $46.25 straight and $20.15 place. Another good crowd was on hand and betting was brisk.

The daily double, which is proving so popular with the fans, was worth $210.95 for a $2 ticket. Only eight managed to pick the two winning horses, Lady Spain in the second, and the long shot, Tetroy, in the third.

There were several very close finishes during the day, but the best was in the fourth, when Piracy was awarded a nose decision over King Han. These two raced like a team down the home stretch and gave the fans a thrill.

Jockey Mills had a fine day in the saddle and rode three winners: Craigmyle, Jenkins, Kelly and Sporti shared the other winning mounts.

Coming through on the rail while entering the last turn, Lord Goldstream, with Mills up, won the first race by a length from Patsy's Pride. Flying Somers was third. Always also, Lord Goldstream showed a burst of speed in taking the lead and easily held off the stretch challenge of Patsy's Pride. Evelyn May and Jack Beaman set the early pace, but each folded up.

Lady Spain, with Craigmyle in the saddle, captured the second race. Idella was second and Missive third. Coming along on the outside on the stretch, Lady Spain picked up the pace-setting Idella and won going away. Missive was always close and an easy third.

LONGSHOT IN FRONT

Coming through on the rail on the back stretch, after the leaders went wide, Tetroy took the third gallop easily. Wiltoria was second and Skoll third. Tetroy was easily the best, and won by about two lengths.

Wiltoria ran wide on back stretch after setting the pace. Skoll closed strongly and passed Maghney in the last ten yards. Tetroy returns $46.25 straight.

PIRACY AND KING HAN

Piracy was awarded the decision in the fourth after a close race with King Han, who was given second place. Primrose Day was third.

This race was a duel between Piracy and King Han throughout, the horses running neck and neck.

Primrose Day was a length behind the leaders. There was quite an uproar from the stands over the decision, many thinking King Han had won.

FAVORITE ON TOP

Harry H. Bell, the favorite, took the fifth race over a mile easily. Purty Shot was second and Crossbow third. The winner went on top at the head of the back stretch and won by a couple of lengths. Purty Shot, after trailing the field, closed with a burst of speed and took the place shot easily. Crossbow was a good third. Lady Aggie opened up a wide lead in the early racing but was overtaken by Purty Shot.

Jockey Mills rode his second straight winner when he brought the favorite, Caberline home, an easy winner in the sixth race. Sweet Money was second and On the Job third. Caberline took command on the back stretch, opened up and led and easily held it. Sweet Money closed with a burst of speed in getting the place berth, as did On the Job. John Franklin set the pace for a half, but ran wide on the turn. The rest were outclassed.

PERIGRINUS SHOWS SPEED

The favorite, Perigrinus had the speed of his field in the last race and won easily. Queen of Prosper was second and Hec third. The second choice, Patsy Burke, was fourth. Perigrinus was rushed into an early lead and easily held off the others.

Queen of Prosper and Hec closed with a rush.

Doctor Dick's Letter Box

TIM MATSON

Dear Doctor,

What of the theory of evolution—Man, from the Anthropoid Ape? I'm rather anxious to get some sound opinion. My husband has been quite queer, lately—spending a lot of his time clambering about on the roof, and what makes me more suspicious, is his sudden passion for coconuts, and a shocking habit of suddenly hunching himself up, and scratching.

Awaiting your reply,

MRS. G. E. RILLA.

Dear Mrs. Rilla,

When I look at my brother, and several other hairy and eccentric contemporaries of mine, I often wonder if it would not be fairer if the theory of evolution of man from ape was reversed.

However, greater theologians than myself have decided that man does not come from ape, but that both had from a common ancestor—just how common is horrible to imagine!

My personal little deduction is that man evolved from penguin. These quaint creatures have small brains and no morals, which only strengthens my theory. My experiments with penguins, from one of the good old Arctic families, have been most interesting. I actually succeeded in marrying a pair. For a while they lived in happy accord; then, I introduced the husband to a flashy young brunette, that I knew had her eye on him. Within a week, that husband was pale and listless (obviously in love)—the brunette, with true female craftiness, was making a terrific fuss over his wife—then, an egg that nobody could account for appeared in the nest . . . and the home, of course, was broken up!

So, you see, Mrs. Rilla, there is something definitely human about my theory, but if you prefer to stick to apes, its ok with me.

Enclosed, please find a photo of my brother, in a sun-suit (note dense foliage, even on forehead, nose and eyelids). If your husband shows wild jubilation, over it, and wants to meet him . . . then I'm afraid my theory is a washout, and Darwin must be right.

Yours neurotically,

DOCTOR DICK.

15,000 SEE SCHAAF STOP BIG CAMPOLO

Giant Pugilist Kayoed in Seventh Round by Boston Heavyweight

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP).—Victorio Campolo, tall tower of the Argentine, crumpled under the body smashes of blonde Ernie Schauf tonight, sagged to a level where Ernie could reach his chin, and finally passed out in the seventh round under the impact of a crushing left hook to the jaw.

Cut above and below the right eye, Campolo slowly settled to the floor to sit dazed and blinking after Schauf nailed him solidly to the chin as they wrestled in a clinch. Referee "Gumbo" Smith, himself an old heavyweight of note, solemnly counted the giant Argentine out. The seventh round lasted two minutes forty-five seconds.

Saltspring Show Proves An Outstanding Success

Capt. M. F. Macintosh, M.P.P., Officiates at Opening of Annual Fall Exhibition—Varied Exhibits Excellent in Numbers and Quality

SALTSRING, Aug. 31.—The eleventh annual South Saltspring Fall Show was held in the Institute Hall, Fulford, on Friday and, as in former years, was under the auspices of the Women's Institute.

It was opened at 2 p.m. by Captain M. F. Macintosh, M.P.P., who gave an excellent address, commending the institute members and exhibitors on their wonderful display, which, he said, was a credit to South Saltspring. He also spoke interestingly on the pioneer days.

In the absence of the Minister of Agriculture, who at the last moment was prevented by special business from attending, his place was taken by the deputy minister, Mr. Munro, who also spoke highly of the show and the judges, specially mentioning their good fortune in the selection of Mr. Gordon, who had for many years acted in this capacity.

A. J. Morley, ex-Mayor of Victoria, was present at the opening, and spoke of his former visit to Saltspring, which was thirty years ago, and dealt with the many changes on the island since those days.

The hall was well filled with exhibitors, the number of entries exceeding that of previous years; everything was of excellent quality, and special mention should be made of the women's section and the wonderfully fine flowers, among them the display of gladioli shown by Mr. J. C. Hamilton.

POPULAR STAR IN "DAYBREAK"

Raymond Novarro Has Role of Viennese Regimental Officer in Capitol Film

"Daybreak," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre, is an intensely interesting presentation of the personality of Raymond Novarro. It presents him as an officer of a Viennese regiment before the war, a gay, dashing adventurer in love. The story, delightfully done by the sophisticated Dr. Arthur Schnitzler, rises from charming comedy to the very heights of drama, based on a light love affair which turns serious, rises from charming comedy to the very heights of drama, based on a light love affair which turns serious, rises from charming comedy to the very heights of drama, based on a light love affair which turns serious.

FINE CAST SUPPORTS GREAT CLASSIC STAR

According to the newspaper reports from other cities in which Ethel Barrymore has presented "The School for Scandal," in which she will appear here at the Royal Victoria Theatre for one night only, Saturday, September 12, she has again selected an exceptionally fine cast, thereby maintaining the tradition of the great Sheridan classic. Virtually all of Miss Barrymore's company have played the parts in which they will be seen here in previous revivals, and it is a noteworthy fact that the revivals of "The School for Scandal" have always been characterized by the finest acting companies in the modern theatre.

GREATER VICTORIA'S UNEMPLOYED TO MEET GOV'T ON WEDNESDAY

Unemployed of Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the city will attend a mass gathering at the Parliament Buildings tomorrow morning when the delegation of municipal representatives and mayors interview the Government in an effort to obtain immediate relief.

The unemployed delegation will support the municipal leaders in their requests and will have as their own spokesmen leaders of the Greater Victoria branch of the National Unemployed Workers' Association.

This information was learned at a meeting of the Saanich unemployed held at Cloverdale yesterday, when representatives of the Victoria organization addressed about seventy unemployed of the municipality. It was decided that those who intend to go to the "workers' hall, Broad Street, and parade to Parliament Square."

It was learned at yesterday's meeting that the Saanich branch of the National Unemployed Workers' Association now has a membership of more than seventy. Those who spoke were A. Hallberg, Hans Kroeger, Mrs. A. D. Campbell, Frangham, W. Shaw and E. E. Bell.

Mrs. Fleetfoot's Narrow Escape

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Naught can for carelessness atone:
Be safe in vigilance alone.
—Mrs. Fleetfoot.

It is hard never to be careless. I don't suppose there is anyone who never is careless. Even those whose very lives depend on constant watchfulness are sometimes careless. It happens constantly among the people of the Green Meadows, the Green Forest, the Dry Desert and the Broad Prairie. It results in many narrow escapes and sometimes lost lives.

No one knows the need of constant vigilance better than does Mrs. Fleetfoot the Antelope, and few there are who are as constantly on the watch for danger as she is. But even she is careless once in a while. There is one thing she must have every day, and this is water. So sometime during each day she visits the nearest place where she can obtain water. While the twins were too young to travel far this place was a pool at the beginning of the foothills that led to the Great Mountains. Every day she visited it. She always approached it with care, looking, listening and testing the air with her wonderful nose.

One morning after the twins had become strong enough to follow her about she headed toward this pool for her daily drink. She didn't take the twins there, however. No, indeed. Long before she reached it she made them lie down in a bit of rough country where they were securely hidden so long as they did not move. Then she headed for the pool. Noted that she had visited that pool many times and never once had she encountered danger there. Never had she had cause to be suspicious. This morning she was in a hurry. Eyes and ears were alert as usual, but for once she didn't stand and carefully test the air with her wonderful nose. She saw nothing suspicious and she heard nothing. She put her head down and began to drink. It just happened that Howler the Wolf had taken it into his head to have a look around that part of the hills that morning and he was near the pool when Mrs. Fleetfoot appeared. Howler's eyes gleamed hungrily as he saw her approach. He crouched flat. He did not move, for he knew how keen were the eyes of Mrs. Fleetfoot. He also knew, too, that the rustle of a leaf would be enough to make her suspicious. So he lay still, hoping that she would come within jumping distance.

Had she gone straight to the pool she would have, but for no particular reason she turned and approached the water at a different place from where she usually did. Howler knew that the instant she had had enough she would return to the Broad Prairie. There was nothing to do but try to creep nearer. So carefully he began to creep forward. Suddenly Mrs. Fleetfoot threw up her head and in her eyes he saw alarm and suspicion. It was now or never. He sprang for her. Quick as he was, Mrs. Fleetfoot was quicker. She bounded to one side as if there were springs in her feet. No sooner did her feet touch the ground than she was in the air again, headed for the open country of the Broad Prairie. Howler leaped after her. He is no mean runner, and although he knew just how fleet of foot she was, he hoped that he might be able to turn her into the broken country of the hills, where she would be unable to use all her speed and where he was thoroughly at home.

Out onto the Broad Prairie dashed Mrs. Fleetfoot, terror in her eyes, for Howler the Wolf is one of the few enemies she really fears. His small cousin, Speedfoot the Coyote, she could fight, but not this great Wolf. To one side of her and for a while keeping almost even with her raced Howler, as he tried to turn her toward the hills. It was a wonderful race. Mrs. Fleetfoot was terror-stricken, but despite her terror she did not forget those precious twins hidden out there not far away. She partly turned toward the hills, and Howler redoubled his efforts. Farther and farther from those precious twins she led him, keeping just enough ahead of him to make him think he had a chance to catch her. Then when she felt it was safe to do so she turned to the Broad Prairie and showed Howler what real running was. With a snarl of disappointment he gave up and trotted back. It was a narrow escape. Indeed, it was.

The next story, "The Twins Have Playmates."
